

Please do not change the law allowing us to go on a no call list from telephone solicitors. We have an unlisted telephone number and still cannot make it through dinner one night without being interrupted by someone trying to sell us something over the phone. It is ridiculous! It is intruding on our family time. We are set to be on the no call list in January and I am looking forward to getting through dinner or homework with my children without interruptions from unnessecary phone calls. Thank you for your time. Melody Searcy
